

Boston Catholic Journal

NIHIL NISI IESUM

Dedicated to Mary, Mother of God

Salus Animarum Suprema Lex Esto (Canon Law 175)

The Salvation of Souls is the Supreme Law in the Church

Purity of Heart

“Blessed are the pure in heart,
for they shall see God.”

(St. Matthew 5:8)

The Greatest Benediction

Jesus offers nine benedictions:

Three pertain to the Kingdom (the poor in spirit, the persecuted, the calumniated).

Three to consolation (those comforted, those satisfied, those obtaining mercy).

And three to possession (of land, of sight, of childhood).

But only one promises God Himself: the pure in heart

Every other blessing gives something other than, something less than, God Himself.

This is kept only for the pure of heart.

All the other blessings pertain to God's justice in the way of recompense, and this justice is inseparable from His love.

But only this one pertains solely to God' love, and not His justice.

It is not a matter of recompense: it is a spontaneous gift, the unsurpassable gift, the most sublime gift, of Himself to those whose hearts are a pure reflection of His own love. Having been created in the imago Dei, the image of God, that image once again becomes, as it had been long ago at Baptism, pure, free from sin, untainted by selfishness – with nothing in the soul that is contrary to God. The mirror is unblemished and reflects nothing other than God Himself; it is the giving of God to the soul in the soul – not in anything outside of it, but in the very soul itself!

These, St. John, tells us, are the ones “who ... have washed their robes and made them white in the Blood of the Lamb.” (Apocalypse 7.14). Spotless, unblemished before God.

Strive for mercy, peace, meekness; thirst for holiness, for justice — but seek first purity in heart ... and when you see God, you will see the beginning, the purpose, and the end ... of all lesser things.

Geoffrey K. Mondello
Editor
Boston Catholic Journal

